Gov. Gen. speaks to SIAS grads in Vietnam

Program delivered through partnership with Ho Chi Minh university

November 18, 2011 – Gov. Gen. David Johnston was on hand today when 133 students received SIAS Business Administration diplomas at a ceremony in Vietnam. The students received their diplomas through a partnership between SIAS and Ho Chi Minh City University of Industry (HUI).

“SIAS is delighted that the Governor General was able to join us for today’s celebration with HUI,” says David Walls, SIAS provost and vice president, academic. “This is a special day for the grads, but it’s also a special day for SIAS. We’re privileged and honoured to have contributed to the education of more than 400 business students at HUI over the last five years.”

Walls attended the ceremony with HUI president Tran Tuan Anh and SIAS Business program heads Graham Chute and Rick Wagman.

SIAS has been active in Vietnam since 1994. Before entering into a partnership with HUI, for instance, SIAS was the lead college in a five-year, $5-million project funded by the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) in Tra Vinh. That project involved establishing a community college that has since become a model for post-secondary vocational education.

SIAS launched a blog to highlight its activities in Vietnam this week. The blog features photos and interviews, including an interview with a University of Regina recruiter in the country to talk with SIAS grads. (In recent years, more than 15 SIAS grads from Vietnam have taken advantage of SIAS transfer credit options to pursue a business degree in Saskatchewan.) Upcoming posts will feature a visit to Tra Vinh University in the Mekong Delta. The blog is accessible at www.goSIAS.com/Vietnam.

SIAS has experience through consulting arrangements or brokering programs in more than 30 countries.
