SIAST unveils state-of-the-art patient simulators

SIAST is first to receive new wireless mannequins

October 22, 2009 – SIAST has purchased four new wireless mannequins for health care education. These patient simulators are new on the market, and SIAST is the first institution in the world to receive the new wireless model – METIman.

METIman is the next generation of patient simulators and will be used by SIAST nursing, paramedic and continuing care students across the province. A short program and interprofessional demonstration are planned to showcase the new technology.

Media are encouraged to attend.
