SIAS Woodland to host program info night

Information session attendees can enter a draw for tuition credits

Wednesday, November 25, 2009 – SIAS Woodland Campus is set to host a program information night this Thursday, Nov. 26, from 3 to 7 p.m. Prospective students and parents will learn what programming options are offered at SIAS and close to home in Prince Albert.

SIAS's student recruitment coordinator, Bill Blok says, "Open house or career fair style information sharing events allow the public, or potential students who don't have a focused career training option in mind, to view, learn and ask questions about a variety of programs offered at SIAS. Students can bring their parents or their friends to see what campus life would be like, see the training spaces and talk one-on-one with program heads about future careers."

Information and displays will be available for a number of program areas including Adult Basic Education, Applied/Visual Media, Business, Community/Human Services, Health Services, Hospitality/Food Services, Industrial/Trades, Natural Resources and Nursing.

The information night will also cover life on campus, services available for students and careers options for graduates. Program heads, instructors and current students will be available to answer questions.

Attendees will have a chance to win SIAS tuition credits. Three tuition credits will be available - $1,000 to be used towards any full-time Business program, $1,000 towards any Applied/Visual Media, Community/Human Services or Hospitality/Food Services program and $250 dollars towards the Continuing Care Assistant program.

Interested students will have the option to apply to a SIAS program of their choice, potentially starting the program as early as January or September 2010.
